Case Studies

↘ Content Management System Based Websites

RNCOS is an e-publishing company publishing and selling business & market research reports online. They had a website for their company which hosts web pages for each of their published report. A web user who visits the website can read brief details about the report and if the report content suits to their need, they can buy them online. Since there are hundreds of reports, it becomes cumbersome to manage content and to make as and when required modifications.

We at Kenovate Solutions have developed a content management system for their website. The system was developed for them to manage their reports online efficiently. The control panel and the front end website were well synchronized so that the change with any content in the control panel will get reflected live on the website.

The new system helps them to enter and manage their reports live. They can now easily manage each report's price, discounts, and optimization keywords. They can publish/un-publish, discontinue any report on a click. The system also helps them to know the most viewed report and allow their visitors to know the related reports for better choices.

Case Studies

⬂ Customized ERP System

Chemical production company purchases raw thinner and other basic chemicals. With the result of their production process, they make packed drums, bottles of refined chemicals to be used by other industries like solvents, paints, researches, pharmaceuticals etc. The day-to-day problem includes generating purchase orders on time, maintain various pricelists for number of dealers, manage taxes, sales, invoicing, discount offers on specific dealer basis etc from head office.

Our solution helped the company to create & manage their outstation dealer by also defining their individual taxes, invoicing system, accounting & discounts. Head office can anytime give a provision to a dealer for discounts to his customers. The system also has accounts module to have vouchers, balance sheet, P&L, Cash & Bank Statements etc.

Using the system, head office can keep a check on credits & discounts given to customers by their dealers, sales, receivables, updated pricelist on item basis for individual dealer. With a click they can see as on status for their taxes, excise duty, clearance registers etc.
